Biography

Konrad Fijołek has served in the Rzeszów local government on the most important committees dealing with budget, municipal economy, social welfare, entrepreneurship and development. He also worked in numerous expert teams in Rzeszów and nationwide.

In 2015, he established one of the first urban movements in Rzeszów - "Rzeszów Smart City". Among other things, the movement has become a promoter of using modern technologies in city management for the benefit of the local community.

Mr. Konrad Fijołek together with the Institute of Political Science of the University of Rzeszów led a series of precursor scientific debates on the vision of modern Rzeszów "Smart Cities. Cities of XXI Century".

He has also conducted numerous campaigns encouraging residents to become active in local issues, such as Smart Boulevards, Family Tree Planting and Children's Holiday Picnics.

On June 13, he won the presidential election in the first round for President of the City of Rzeszów. In the election he defeated Ewa Leniart supported by PiS party, Marcin Warchoł associated with 'Solidarna Polska' and Grzegorz Braun from Confederation.

With a voter turnout of 54%, he received 56.51% of the valid votes. Ewa Leniart received 23.62%, Marcin Warchoł 10.72% and Grzegorz Braun 9.15%.

148,263 voters were eligible to vote.
